Asking Price (Zillow.com, April 2026): $785,000

Calculated Price: $729,965.04 (~$730,000)

Calculated Price Explanation: Our calculations indicate that the value of this home is approximately $730,000, which is 7.5% lower than the current asking price of $785,000. This suggests that this home may be overpriced based on key property characteristics of year built, above ground square footage, basement size and lot size.

Price Difference Explanation: The difference between asking price and our calculated price could be influenced by the current market in this neighborhood as well as the location. When comparing neighborhood listings in this area, there is a mix in pricing strategies. One nearby property is listed at 5.6% below its estimated value, while another is priced at about 9.9% above its estimated value.

This variation could suggest that sellers in this area could be selling based on demand and negotiation strategies instead of key property characteristics.
