Asking Price (Zillow.com, April 2026): $679,900

Calculated Price: $595,164.66 (~$595,000)

Calculated Price Explanation: Our calculations indicate that the value of this home is approximately $595,000, which is 14.25% lower than the current asking price of $679,900. This suggests the home may be overpriced based on the key property characteristics of year built, above ground square footage, basement size and lot size.

Home report

Price Difference Explanation: The difference between asking price and calculated price could be influenced by the current market as well as the location. Two nearby homes are priced approximately 10% below their estimated values, which could suggest different pricing strategies.

While this home appears to be overpriced compared to nearby homes, recent renovations and its location could justify a higher listing price. This neighborhood is also in Old Town Arvada, with two high schools, one elementary school, and two local parks and a large lake. This property also resides near major intersections including Wadsworth and HWY 76.

6050 Marshall Court, Arvada, CO 80003 Local Amenities

Suggested Price Offer: Our suggested price offer is $615,000 which is above the estimated value but considers recent renovations and its current high price point. The price offer of $615,000 is competitive for the neighborhood and allows room for negotiation.

Max Price Recommendation: The maximum price I would recommend paying for this home is $635,000. This price is above the estimated value but considers the location and recent renovations. A price above this amount could be overpriced considering the home's value.
